FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Q: Is there a height requirement?

A: Yes, but it depends on the airline and aircraft. As a general rule, you should be at least 1.58 m.

Q: Is there a age cut-off?

A: No. You can fly until retirement age, as long as you pass recurrent training, medicals, and airline requirements.

Q: How do I stay current once licensed?

A: You'll need to complete regular recurrent training and medicals as required by SACAA regulations. Licences do expire-this keeps you legal and airborne.

Q: Why do I need a medical before training?

A: A medical is required for licensing. Doing it before training avoids wasting time and money if you're found medically unfit.

Q: What happens after I finish the course?

A: You'll write the final SACAA exam. Pass it, and SACAA issues your licence. Job hunting is then up to you-just like any qualification.

Q: Do you place students in jobs?

A: We don't recruit, but our reputation as a top ATO speaks loudly in the aviation industry.

Q: How tough is the course?

A: It's serious training. 16 modules over 7 weeks. Written exams require 90%, practical assessments require 100%. This reflects the high safety standards required in aviation.

Q: What are the training hours?

A: 08h30-17h00, Monday to Friday. Occasionally weekends or public holidays.

Q: Is there a dress code?

A: Yes. Neat, groomed, and professional to reflect airline industry standards.

Q: What are the minimum requirements?

A: - 18 years or older (exceptions considered) - English proficiency (international standard) - Medically fit (DD50 medical required)

Q: Where are you based?

A: 216 Johan Road, Honeydew, Johannesburg. All training is done here so we can do practicals at OR Tambo International Airport.

Q: Can I study further after the 7-week course?

A: Absolutely. Choose from additional skills courses, the 16-week Platinum Cabin Crew Course.

Q: Are you a legit, certified academy?

A: Yes. Established in 2008, registered with SACAA, audited regularly, and operating as ATO SACAA/ATO/1056. Final exams are written at SACAA Midrand.

Q: Do you accept international students?

A: Yes-students from across the world train with us.

Q: Is the SACAA Cabin Crew Licence internationally recognised?

A: Yes. It's based on ICAO Doc 10002, the global cabin crew standard.
